

“REMEMBER”

I'll remember when they come for you,
It is written, you must die for this truth.
I'll remember our wedding day,
The Lord heard me when I prayed.
For you, I Love You, so I submit to you, and I'll remember.
That marriage is not all about the glam, shine, the nice bottle of wine.
But it's when two souls become one mind.
Loosen the bounds that's been set.
The world doesn't want to see us climb to the highest,
They'd rather see us confined to darkness.
We are the creatures of mankind,
Let our ears be inclined.
As a Wife, I'll open my mouth with wisdom and be kind.
As my Husband, you will rule as you were designed.
As we unwind and bask in this moment, I won't be blind.
We are living in the end of times; I see the signs.
We will search the scriptures every time.
I'll remember.
