

Shalom Sisters, Most High and Christ Bless all the fabulous Daughters of Sarah. I am Shai of the House of Officer Gamaliel, IUIC L.A.

We have got an exciting report on all things headwraps this Spring and Summer season! After all the fashion shows, runways, and trend reports, as well as noted styles from our favorite Israelite princesses, I am here to bring you all the latest and easy to put together styles. The changing weather will bring out buttery colors, pops of bold hues and even softer silkier materials.

With the seasonal changes, your crown will be most comfortable covered in lightweight and breathable fabrics. Aim for beautifully printed silk or silky scarves, and highly saturated solid colors in cotton.

Shades of blue are popping up all over Israel. It is fresh and airy and gives a needed pop of color to any print this season. ROYAL BLUE packs the necessary punch and adds a needed pop of color to all outfit

COLORS

The most interesting color combinations this season starts with Yellow and ends in Neutral. Combine your yellow with nudes, especially camel, chocolate, and light brown to tan. This sunny and buttery hue will look light and bright against the neutral background. Use your yellow headwrap to top off any monochromatic color scheme - that is your all blacks, your black and whites, and all whites or solid colors when it comes to dresses and outfits. Do not forget your yellow bags and purses. Matching your headwrap to your purse will give you a chic finish.

PASTELS are soft and light and here for a while. If you are aiming for pieces that will give you more wear for seasons to come, definitely go with your favorite pastels. They are not just for spring and summer anymore! Pastels pair well with neutrals this season and will add a creamy warm tone to your wardrobe.

STYLES

For big chops, short hair styles and tucked under curls, create a more structured look with your crispy cotton fabrics. Flower and loose knots at the front look gorgeous in solid colors. Starch and press your 100% cottons for the crisp look and feel needed. Be sure to add a satin cap under your cottons to keep your hair and edges friction free and moisturized.

If trying a new headwrap style this season, aim for something close to the head like “The Twisted Crown” it has a lovely silhouette. It can be done with the mentioned above color combos in your lightweight cottons and silk fabrics.

If you have longer hair let it flow, framing your face, tie a silk scarf “Do-Rag” or “Bandana” style with a single knot to the back.

For Headwrap beginners try the no-tie “Pillar” style, by winding or crossing fabric around your crown after piling a high bun atop your head and tucking in the remaining end. This style gives a regal and stylish silhouette. It is also the most comfortable and loose-fitting wrap, allowing for longer wear. Look for shops that offer bonnet to headwrap pieces that will give you a perfect pillar every time. You may find ones already lined with satin.
